

DANGEROUS GOODS CERTIFICATE

This certificate applies to air freight of personal belongings.

It is strictly prohibited to ship personal belongings containing dangerous goods.

Shipments are subject to security screening and X-ray inspection by authorized personnel at the airports where they are handled. Inspections may take place both in the country of origin and in other countries during transit. Prohibited items may be confiscated and destroyed, always at the customer's expense.

Signing a false or misleading dangerous goods certificate constitutes the submission of incorrect information. This may be considered a violation of international aviation security regulations and, in some cases, may be classified as smuggling or a criminal offence.

A minimum charge of SEK 15,000 will apply. Significantly higher costs may be incurred in accordance with airline tariffs and decisions by authorities.

Examples of dangerous goods:

- Ammunition, firearms, explosives
- Batteries, including lithium batteries, and equipment containing or powered by batteries (tablets, laptops, mobile phones, cameras, e-cigarettes etc.)
- Corrosive substances (e.g. car batteries)
- Paints/chemicals containing alcohol (hair products, printer ink, paint, adhesives etc.)
- Gas/pressure containers such as camping gas, diving cylinders, soda stream cylinders etc.
- Rechargeable products such as hoverboards, robot vacuum cleaners, power tools, grass trimmers etc.
- Engines, machinery or engine parts that have been in contact with petrol, diesel or oil
- Oil and petrol
- Shoe polish, nail polish and removers, acetone, perfume, aftershave etc.
- Aerosols such as perfume, aftershave, hairspray, deodorant, shoe impregnation etc.
- Alcoholic beverages in larger quantities
- Dry ice
- Lighters, matches
- Pressurized containers such as shaving foam, hair foam etc.

Dangerous goods may also be hidden within ordinary items such as electronics, tools, toys and household goods.

I hereby certify that I am aware of the full contents of my shipment and that it does not contain dangerous goods in accordance with applicable regulations, regardless of whether the shipment has been packed by myself or by a third party. I understand that incorrect or incomplete information may result in the shipment being stopped, delayed, seized or destroyed, and may lead to additional costs and legal action. The freight forwarder reserves the right to open, inspect and, if necessary, repack the shipment, and all costs related to this will be charged to the customer.
